Bloxton Hotels
Interview Guide [MRs]

Introduction

Congratulations on your promotion! We recommend reading over this guide before attending your first interview session. Reading over this guide will ensure you have a comfortable and great first experience!

Interview Procedure

At the very beginning of interviews, all MRs will line up shoulder to shoulder in front of the interview doors. Note sometimes your host may TP you inside.

Grammar Test

Once the session has begun, the host will make an announcement that grammar tests are starting. The host will ask the guests to correct a sentence. Once the announcement has been made, you will spread out to a row and make sure the guests correct the sentence correctly.

Note: Each host may do a different sentence that needs to be corrected, so make sure you pay attention to what sentence that needs to be corrected.

Scenario
Host: "Please correct the following sentence: he110, w31c0m3 t0 bl0xT0N h0TE1s, h0W mAY i h3lp u t0day"

Interviewer: "Corrections?"

Interviewee: "Hello, welcome to Bloxton Hotels, how may I help you today?"

In this scenario, the interviewee has spelled the sentence correctly. You would then proceed to use the name command and name the interviewee "Done". An example of an incorrect sentence would be:

Interviewee: "hello welcome to bloxton hotels how may i help you today"

If the interviewee has spelled the correction incorrectly, such as above, you would proceed to kick them. Remember to provide a reason. It can just be as simple as "Incorrect correction", or you put your own twist on it with emojis, etc.

_____

General Knowledge

There are two types of interviews. Sometimes your host may do a lobby interview. Sometimes your host may do an office interview. Below is general knowledge about both types of interviews.

Grammar Mistakes
If an interviewee makes a grammar mistake, mark them on it. If they reach three grammar strikes, they fail. Remember to not be too strict on commas and such, but do not let other mistakes slide. Remember, they can always try again in the future!

Copy and Pasters
If you catch an interviewee copying and pasting answers, it is an automatic fail. This is not tolerated, as it is considered cheating. If you are unsure if an interviewee is copying and pasting their answers, you can use this document where you can find most of the copied answers that players use. https://docs.google.com/document/d/1eXj5VRZML8AZVIOzhzQXjNOSVV_VwQD4gHWv9PkuIZ8/edit

If you're still unsure, feel free to ask another MR or higher.

Questions 2 and 5
These questions require the interviewee to provide three or more sentences. If three sentences have not been provided, ask your interviewee to provide enough until they have reached three. If they do not answer within II-III minutes, then it is an automatic failure.

Important
Much like the grammar test, make sure to give a reason if you are going to kick someone, such as "Unfortunately, you did not pass the Bloxton Hotel Interview due to III grammar mistakes, but you can always try again next session." or "Unfortunately, you did not pass the Bloxton Hotel Interview due to not answering in time, but you can always try again next session. Apologies!"

General Knowledge
Lobby Interviews

After all interviewees have finished the grammar test, you should stand shoulder to shoulder with the rest of the MRs. The host will then go through the rules. Once the host has finished, all MRs will spread out to make sure every interviewee is being interviewed. Note you can be interviewing 3-4 people. The host will then go through the questions. For an easier experience at viewing answers, it is best you use chatlogs. After the interview has been completed, unname your interviewee, and if they passed, use the command !pass (interviewee's username). Make sure they have a green tag saying PASSED under their name. You can then kick your interviewee as they were added to a special board with all the other interviewees who have passed.

Note: Sometimes your host may ask you to not kick the interviewees. If your host does not tell you to kick your interviewee or does not tell you to not kick the interviewee, it is best you ask the host before kicking.

Office Interviews

After all interviewees have finished the grammar test, you should stand shoulder to shoulder with the rest of the MRs. The host will then go through the rules. Once the host has finished the rules, the host will ask you to find an office. Once you are in your office, your host will send you a PM when you can begin. You can then close your door by clicking on the screen next to your chair. You then click the "Bring Interviewee" button and an interviewee will be teleported into your office. If you are asked to interview more than one person, tell your interviewee to jump out the seat, and then click the button again. It will then teleport another interviewee into your office. After you have your interviewee(s) in your office, you will ask them 7 different questions. After you have completed the seven questions, you will tell your interviewee if they have passed or not. After the interview has been completed, unname your interviewee, and if they passed, use the command !pass (interviewee's username). Make sure they have a green tag saying PASSED under their name. You can then kick your interviewee as they were added to a special board with all the other interviewees who have passed.

Note: Sometimes your host may ask you to not kick the interviewees. If your host does not tell you to kick your interviewee or does not tell you to not kick the interviewee, it is best you ask.

7 Questions

I) What position are you seeking? (Only rank 4-7)

QII) Why are you seeking this position? (III sentences)
[Remember to provide III+ detailed sentences.]

QIII) Have you had any past experience in a job like this? If so, what groups?

QIV) In a scale 1-10, how active are you?

QV) Why should we hire you over others? (III sentences)
[Remember to provide III+ detailed sentences.]

QVI) Are you willing to put the time and effort into this position/job?

QVII) On a scale, how well is your grammar? Rate from I-X. (I-IO)

Conclusion

That's all the information you need to know! Congratulations on your promotion!

x_leak